WASHINGTON, November 12. - Senator Washington, November 12.—Senator Conkling arose to a personal explanation, and referred to a publication, on Friday last, in the New York Herald, purporting, in some genesal sense, to come from him. It did not profess to be a report, literally, of anything said by him, but professed to be a narrative of private conversations, and it disclaimed accuracy. As generally read, it seems to have been accepted as something which had become to be known in an interview. He desired to state that for some months he had not held an interview, for publication, with anyone, save in one inpublication, with anyone, save in one instance, and then in regard to the usefulness and services here of the dead senator from Indiana. In all other instances he had declined to be interviewed. The Herald's statement contained some remarks which he with the government.
